Description:

Joseph Campbell, arguably the greatest mythologist of the twentieth century, was certainly one of our greatest storytellers. This masterfully crafted book interweaves conversations between Campbell and some of the people he inspired, including poet Robert Bly, anthropologist Angeles Arrien, filmmaker David Kennard, Doors drummer John Densmore, psychiatric pioneer Stanislov Grof, Nobel laureate Roger Guillemin, and others. Campbell reflects on subjects ranging from the origins and functions of myth, the role of the artist, and the need for ritual to the ordeals of love and romance. With poetry and humor, Campbell recounts his own quest and conveys the excitement of his lifelong exploration of our mythic traditions, what he called "the one great story of mankind."

Major Joseph Campbell fan! This is one of the few books that I did not own. Reading it was, like only Campbell can do, another door to another amazing world. He makes you think about yourself within the context of this country, this planet, this place in space. We are incredible beings and we need to understand each other better and get to know ourselves and the world around us on a much deeper level. So many ah ha! moments when reading about Campbell and realizing we are all on our own Heros Journey.
